IT'S NORTHWARD HO! FOR SAN FRANCISCO

PORTERVILLE, Oct. 19 — Centennial Bushfaces will carry their crusade to repeal women's suffrage up San Francisco's Market street Saturday morning, directly to the steps of the San Francisco city hall — and they will be opposed every foot of the way by militant and determined Centennial Dolls of Porterville.

Sixty-seven persons have made reservations on two chartered busses that will leave from the Porterville chamber of commerce office for San Francisco Friday at 12:30 and 1 p.m.; in addition, other Centennial citizens plan to travel by private car.

Most of the Centennial delegation will stay at the Sheraton Palace hotel in San Francisco, with arrival there planned between 6 and 7 p.m. Friday.

The Centennial demonstration from the San Francisco Ferry building, up Market street and McAllister street to the San Francisco city hall, will start at 11 a.m., Saturday, October 21; the Porterville group will be given an official welcome by Mayor George Christopher, of San Francisco, and by representatives of the San Francisco chamber of commerce.

Units that will be used in the march up Market street include the Confederate cannon crew and Dixieland band; the Centennial stage coach; Ed Jones' Speedwell car; the junior chamber of commerce fire engine; the Centennial fire engine, and the Centennial caliope.

Horses for the demonstration will be transported in the E. L. Beaver van; equipment is being trucked to San Francisco by Gene Tharp.

The San Francisco blast is the last of a series of road trips during the Porterville Centennial year that were designed to extend Centennial greetings from Porterville to various cities, and to publicize the community of Porterville.

The queen contestants will compete for the title and trophy on Sunday, October 29, at 12:30 p.m. just prior to the Buckarooodeo.

SIXTEEN COTTON pickers - count 'em - are shown working Sunday at the Homer Smartt ranch west of Poplar, where growers donated their services and equipment, Smartt paid the regular picking fee, and $818.60 was raised for the Tule River Youth Center at Poplar. Harvesting 35 acres of cotton in about three hours were pickers donated by the following ranchers: George Brinkley (2), Roy Brinkley, Roy Langston, Al Holderman, and Hack Hutchinson, two-row pickers; Howard Tharp (3), Overholt Brothers (3), Dick

Woodard, Jim Bays and Ray Hutchinson (2), one-row pickers. This is the second year that farmers of the area have used the unusual type of fund raising for benefit of the Poplar youth program. (United Aerial Photo made available by Hack Hutchinson)

junior chamber of commerce, and Buck Shaffer, with two high school bands, a Centennial girls' band and a Centennial boys' band, plus a Centennial show at the Legion hall in the evening, entertained the Legionnaires. Three hundred persons attended the weekend convention of the Third area in Porterville, headed by State Department Commander Roscoe Morse. (Edwards Studio photos)

Dolphins, Bootleggers, Hearst, Railroads

For more than ten years Dr. John Lilly has been engaged in research to prove that communications with an alien species is possible. In MAN AND DOLPHIN he tells us the reasons why dolphins were chosen for the research, what the results so far have been, and touches lightly on the future implications for science of the brain, and evolutionary development. This is NOT science fiction, but a serious, utterly engaging account of a friendly, intelligent species and its relations with man.

The lack of good studies of either French Equatorial Africa or the Union of Benin makes AFRICA: ANGRY YOUNG GIANT, by Smith Hempstone, a most important book. The author wisely gives little attention to Ghana or Guinea, but rather devotes his discussion to the emerging, powerful Nigeria. This area presents the most constructive force in Africa today, and is the main hope of the West for that continent.

THE BOOTLEGGERS AND THEIR ERA, by Kenneth Allsop, is a surprisingly enjoyable book, considering its subject. Its English author comes to grips with the real problems of the Roaring Twenties; the geographical, racial, economic and historical reasons behind the widespread breakdown of morality and law enforcement. A stimulating book!

We Only Heard

By Bill Rodgers

THREE WEEKS ago Buck Shaffer and his super-duper Panther band paid an excellent and well-deserved tribute to Porterville's Centennial women, the Divine Order of Lovely Ladies, by having the band spell out the initials of the organization — DOLL — during the halftime show at a football game. But following this performance there has been a bit of rumbling among Porterville's stout-hearted, bearded men, who are wondering when Buck will have his band spell out the initials of the organized bearded group — the Supreme Order of Bushfaces. . . . After all, Buck can carve himself another niche in the hall of fame if he does it.

IN A press release from Porterville college we are informed that Mrs. Esther R. Bradley, dean of women at Porterville college, has been invited to a Governor's conference on Youth and Community service in Long Beach, the invitation coming from California Governor Edmund G. Brown. Now, this is fine, for the first paragraph, but then the press release points out that object of the conference is to "stimulate additional community services by young people in what has been called a California version of the Peace Corps idea." . . . We're all for stimulating community service by young people, but let's keep the "politics" out. We suggest that Mrs. Bradley stay home and work on student community service programs with Porterville groups if she and the college are really interested in stimulating this sort of project. . . . Actually, we can think of many instances in which young people are participating in community activities, in fact if one will read a little history of Porterville, they will learn that young people have had things to say and do in this community for many years. We doubt that the "Peace Corps idea", or partisan politics, has anything worthwhile to add in this particular field.

WE FAILED to get around to a review of the most recent Barn theater production, "The Strong One", and we regret this, for there were a number of good things to say about this production. First off it was written by LeRoy King, of the Porterville college faculty, about eight years ago as part of a requirement for his Master's thesis at the University of Southern California. We don't know what the USC profs. thought about it, but on the Barn stage, it shaped up pretty well; certainly it had character; a solid, although unusual plot idea; a bit of humor along the way, but a serious concept underneath. The cast, as we saw its members on opening night, was capable, and Phoebe-Ann Tobias and Connie Cone were a notch or two above that. As for a newcomer, we can see a lot of possibility in Leland Jewell, a young fellow whose Dixieland clarinet we have often enjoyed without it ever occurring to us that he would be trodding the Barn boards. . . . In this production we hope we saw the Barn on the upgrade; goodness knows Helen Campos, director of "The Strong One", is working her head off; a few others seem to be rallying 'round, and with Elizabeth Dobson directing the next one — "Three Men On A Horse", that opens tonight, and an experienced new resident of the community, Gary Garlund, getting ready to put "The Royal Family" together, maybe the old spark of the Barn is beginning to burn again. . . . We hope so; the Barn, when it is playing at its best, is a real fine community asset.

HEALTH, WEALTH AND STRANGE POLITICS — THAT'S CALIFORNIA

OUR GREAT AND SOVEREIGN State of California is noteworthy for health, wealth and strange politics. There is something about the climate and the generosity of nature that fosters the first two, but where the political deviations arose, is anyone's guess. First came the Spanish with their missions and a fine disregard for the natives, who at that time happened to be Indians. Then came the 49ers who had a fine disregard for the natives, who were now Spanish, and seemingly disregarded all authority except the business end of a gun or rope.

WITH THE GOLD RUSH, the population grew by leaps and bounds. There were no chambers of commerce to note this great progress, but the populace grew and grew just the same. Naturally, law and order had to come, and with them, politics. It is noted that politics are not necessarily synonymous with law and order.

IT SO HAPPENED THAT at this time there was a group of men building a railroad from Sacramento to the East. These gentlemen were known as the "Big Four" and showed great acumen in fleecing the Federal government and the populace. This was very sad, because they acquired so much money that they decided they must get into politics.

THIS WAS UNFORTUNATE because the "Big Four" set the tempo for many years to come. They would use their money to buy legislatures and legislators and call it "business expense". They got so enthused they even ran one of their number for Governor. This made him very happy, because it was a toy he had always wanted, and also got to drive a golden spike somewhere out in the salt flats of Utah. The Big Four did not have an unmixed admiration for one another and toward the end of their story there was considerable political doublecrossing.

THEN ALONG CAME HIRAM JOHNSON, who was unusual in politics in that he was very forthright and spoke out what he had in his mind. Namely, it was "throw the rascals out". He became governor and the great sovereign state had a fairly stable government. Since that time California has withstood many political whirlwinds such as EPIC, Thirty-Every-Thursday and other deviations from simple politics.

THE LATEST STRANGE-

NESS HAS now appeared on the scene in the feud in the Republican party. Dick finally decided to run for Governor. This caused a great rise in blood pressure to Mr. Goodwin Knight who was dry gulched out of his claim for Governor in the last election by Sen. Knowland. Knowland wanted to swap jobs, so they both wound up with no job at all, and Bubbles Brown was turned loose on the body politics of California.

THE BEST WAY TO COMMIT political suicide is to get a party fighting within; it might more aptly be called internal bleeding.

National Committee Woman To Speak Nov. 14

PORTERVILLE, Oct. 19 — A number of Republican women in Porterville plan to hear Pat Hitt, national Republican committee woman when she speaks at a luncheon meeting at Peden's, in Hanford, November 14.

Reservations are requested by November 14 by Dorothy Misenhimer, of Hanford.

Anyway, we have the spectacle of so-called party leaders indulging in name calling, charges and counter charges, none of which is calculated to get votes.

IF THE REPUBLICANS keep this up much longer, they won't have to worry about the next Governor's election. The Democrats will get it by default.

WHAT'S DOING

Thousands of pieces of man-made sapphire will cover the surface of the communications satellite now being developed by Bell Telephone Laboratories.

These sapphires are expected to protect from space radiation the cells of Bell solar batteries which convert sunlight into electricity. In the illustration, an engineer is covering a solar cell for a communication satellite with man-made sapphires.

This protection is expected to enable "working" satellites to endure the rigors of space for ten years or more, relaying telephone calls and television across the oceans.

We take pleasure in announcing the appointment of Larry Lampert as our Commercial Representative for Porterville, Springville and Terra Bella.

Larry's duties will be to handle our customer contacts involving new applications, additions and changes in existing service, billing and collection matters and public telephone work.

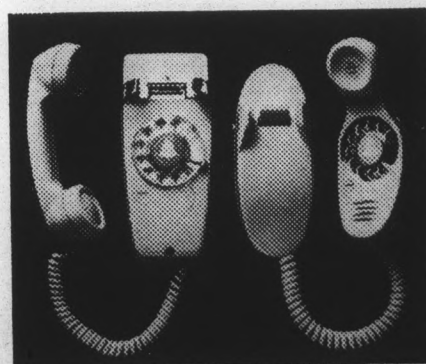

Before he actually takes over his assignment, he will attend a five weeks training course in Visalia which will prepare him for the position.

Larry said he chose our company for employment because of the opportunities we offer for development and advancement.

These unusual-looking telephones were tried out in homes like yours last year. They were being tested as part of our research in developing new phones.

The families tried first one and then the other for several weeks, and then told us what they liked and didn't like. In this way they helped us learn what ideas you, our customers, would prefer in future telephones.

The time will soon be here when you will wish you had planted bulbs. Your neighbors will have bulbs in bloom, songs will be written about bulbs, prizes will be given for tulips ten feet across, and all you'll have is out of season nut grass.

This can be prevented however by purchasing Holland's finest product from our bulb table. These are tulips, hyacinths, crocus, daffodils, lilies, ranunculus, anemone, sparaxis, muscari, campanula, dutch iris, and dozens of others just waiting a spot in your yard.

These bulbs, and the ones you already have, thrive on a diet of bone meal. Old steak bones, drumsticks, and fish vertebrae finely ground are excellent. However we do have it already ground for sixty five cents a bag if you don't mind throwing your money around a little.

Another good buy this week is dichondra seed. This jewel of the lawn seed world is selling for two fifty a pound - the lowest price in the history of the stuff. You can sow it right over the top of your bermuda lawn and if you live a good clean life it will crowd the bermuda out. For the rest of you, it will at least cut down on the mowing. Come as you are to "E" Street north of Olive.

Moving from "Willie's" birth in 1863 to fabulously wealthy parents — to his decline and death in 1951, we are given a rich slice of Americana.

Few books have been written about the "short lines" of California railroads, but in SIERRA Railway, by Dorothy Newell Deane, we have a delightful story of a likable little railroad, with climbing winding grades, and high trestles over fast-running mountain streams. The early story of Columbia and Sonora is here; this is a find for students of California.

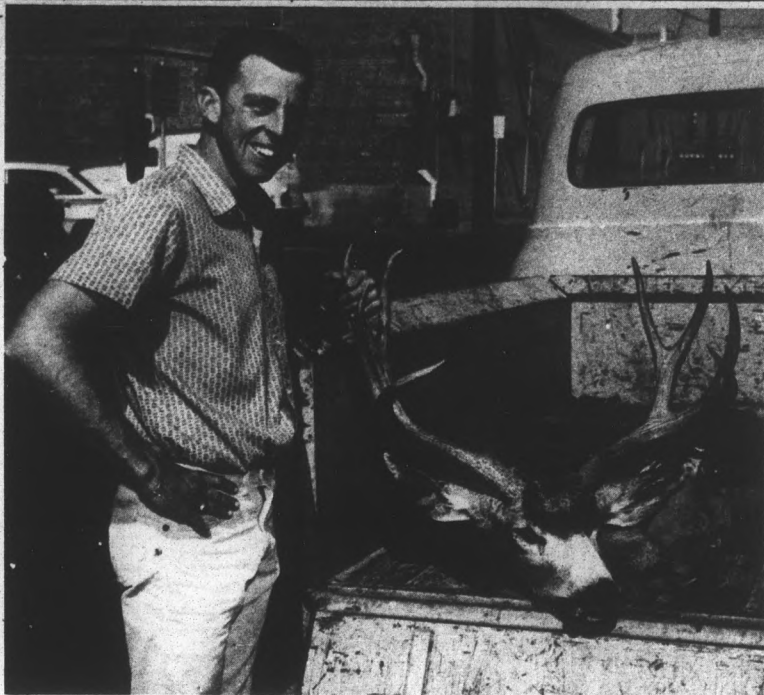

Snap bean production in the central coastal area of California is running moderately heavy, but will decline in November.

A few cantaloupes are moving from late fields in the San Joaquin valley, and will continue until frost.

ROBERT E. LEE WOULD BE PROUD OF SOUTH HI REBELS

Robert E. Lee would have been proud of South High's Rebels Friday night as they used modern warfare methods of infantry supported by air to roll over the PUHS Panthers 26-0.

The Rebels, an integrated eleven, showed a fine balance of air and ground as they scored the first time they got the ball and then continued, almost unthreatened, to dominate the game until the final gun. Top foot trooper for the Rebs was a 167 pound fullback with the improbable name of T-bone Henderson. We would have to rate him as the best running back we have seen this season as he ripped the Panther line for big yardage consistently. When their running game faltered, which was seldom, the Rebs were able in the air with lanky John Turner, a quarterback who did not call his own plays, doing the throwing.

In dropping their first game of the season the Panthers were sluggish on defense and almost powerless on offense. The line-up shake-up of last week showed a few new faces, but got few results. In looking for a bright spot in the evening we point to the performance of Hersel Ross, former offensive fullback, at left defense end. The youngster played a fine game at that position and presented the only spot in the Panther defense that was consistently tough. On one occasion he ran right over a blocker to tackle the passer on a roll-out play. He came to play football.

This week the Panthers take a 3-1 record into Central Yosemite League competition as they open league play Saturday night at Tulare. If Cliff Brown is healthy and can go all the way we think the Panthers will start the league season off with a win.

The Porterville College Pirates continued to be plagued with troubles last week as they made the long haul to Santa Maria Saturday to take on rugged Allen Hancock. It was a long trip home after the game as the Pirates lost 22-6 to the Bulldogs.

The Pirates were again without the services of quarterback Othel Pearson, who is still sidelined with an elbow injury. His replacements, Keith Westbay and Larry Crawford, have come along very well, but the return to health of Pearson would be a real shot in the Pirates' offensive arm.

The Pirates return home Saturday night as they take on Taft's pass-minded Cougars. The Cougars were blasted 26-0 last week by Reedley as their 49er shotgun offense misfired.

Elsewhere around the league it shapes up as a battle between Reedley and Fresno for the league title. The Reedley eleven is still unbeaten as is Fresno. The meeting of the two could decide the title. COS has turned into the flop of the season as the Giants have dropped their last two games, to Hancock and Coalinga, showing lots of offense but backed up by a badly leaking defense.

On the national football scene there have been some interesting changes. Notre Dame, the whipping boy of recent years, has turned up big and bullish this year. Powered by Daryle Lamonica, former Clovis High School ace, the Irish have won three without a loss and could be the best in the nation. Oklahoma continues to be meek, for the third year, as Coach Bud Wilkinson fails to find the answer. Ohio State's three-yards-and-a-cloud-of-dust offense continues to function, with the aid of a gargantuan 220 pound fullback named Bob Ferguson and the Buckeyes could land in the Rose Bowl this year. The west coast would have to hunt high and low for a worthy representative as it looks like one of those rough years for the California football teams.

YOUR LEGISLATOR AT WORK!

Senator

J. Howard Williams

32nd District

California State Legislature

Eager young children, because of their inquisitive activities, frequently expose themselves to hazards which can threaten their health or safety. Sometimes these hazards are of a nature which can be brought under control by legislative action, so the need for such action is directed to our attention. The dangers to children of pliofilm bags, discarded old-fashioned refrigerators, unguarded well-openings, are matters of this type which have previously received our consideration.

At our last session, our attention was called to another problem of this kind. That is the danger of poisoning from the seeds of castor bean plants. A bill to limit possession of such plants was introduced, but action was deferred pending further study. The Assembly interim committee on agriculture recently held a public hearing on the measure, and other hearings are anticipated. A few municipal control ordinances have been passed.

The committee was told that approximately thirty children in one county alone are known to have been poisoned because they innocently ate castor beans broadcast by plants grown as ornamental shrubs. The seeds come in all sizes, shapes, and colors, but most of them closely resemble edible beans, and they are shot from their spiny capsules over wide areas. Not only is the plant commonly used as a shrub, but it also grows wild along many roadsides.

The difficulty in drafting suitable legislation to control the growing of the castor bean is that the plant has considerable commercial importance. Some 2,000 acres were grown in California this year, and the acreage is expected to increase rapidly in years to come. The seeds yield a high quality of oil, which has been in use since Biblical days. In addition to its well-known use in medicine, and its use as a lubricant in complex and delicate machinery, the oil is valuable in printing, dyeing, and the manufacture of paints, plastics, and textiles such as rayon and nylon.

Our Armed Forces need castor oil for flexible wire coverings, hydraulic system fluids, and explosives. The oil was high on the critical list during World War II. Because most of our supply came from India and Brazil, its use was carefully controlled. Since the war, castor bean cultivation has been encouraged to meet any future national emergency, and scientists are working to produce the best seed stocks and plants most adaptable to machine seeding and harvesting.

The bill as introduced, proposed to exempt commercial growing and processing of castor beans but will require fencing of all fields. To aid in controlling the growth of wild plants on unimproved private or public lands, it would have required removal of all plants on such land within 48 hours of filing of a written notice that the plants existed. Opponents of the measure pointed out that none of these provisions, as originally drafted, was practical. While admitting the castor bean is poisonous, it was argued that some 40 other plants grow in California which are poisonous, such as oleander, loco weed, and Johnson grass, but no control programs for them are suggested.

Proponents of the measure appeared willing to iron out the kinks in the exemption and notice sections, but argued strongly in favor of prohibiting use of castor beans as ornamental shrubs. They pointed out that the other poisonous plants mentioned are not attractive to children, so the seeds are not eaten. They maintained the castor, like the marijuana plant, needs legislative control.

Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and accordingly included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as we deemed necessary in the circumstances except that we were not present when the inventory was taken. However, we satisfied ourselves as to physical quantities at a later date.

In our opinion, the accompanying balance sheet and related statements of operations present fairly the financial position of the Sierra View Hospital District at June 30, 1961, and the results of its operations for the year then ended in conformity with generally accepted governmental accounting procedures applied on a basis consistent with the prior year.
